Understanding ASEAN

- It is home to more than 600 million people.
- Together, ASEAN's ten member states form an economic powerhouse with a large potential market.
- If ASEAN were a single country, it would be the seventh-largest economy in the world.
- Next to the People's Republic of China and India, ASEAN has the world's third largest labor force that remains relatively young.
- A total of 7,446 Higher Education Institutions exist in the region.

The Challenge

- There is a need to bridge the perceived "development divide" between the older and economically more advanced members - Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore, and Thailand, known as the ASEAN-6, and the four newer members – Cambodia, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Myanmar and Viet Nam, also known as CLMV countries.

The ASEAN Quality Assurance Network (AQAN)

- Founded in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia in July 2008
- A registered international association under the Societies Act 1966 of Malaysia
- Secretariat hosted by Malaysia Qualifications Authority
- 10 full members representing the ASEAN Member States and 7 Associate Members
- Member of INQAAHE
- Mission: To share information, to build capacity and to establish the ASEAN regional quality assurance framework

ASEAN QUALITY ASSURANCE FRAMEWORK (AQAF)

BACKGROUND

- 2008 - Ministers of Education during the SEAMEO Council Meeting endorsed the proposal on “ The Structured Framework for Regional Integration in Higher Education : the Road towards a Common Space”
- 2008 - Establishment of AQAN
- 2011 - AQAN Round Table Meeting in Brunei decided to develop an ASEAN Quality Assurance Framework and a Task Force was created
- 2013 - AQAN endorsed in principle the work being done by the Task Force
- 2014 - Work of the Task Force continues....
- 2015 - Formal political endorsement process is ongoing

Purposes of the ASEAN Quality Assurance Framework

- Serves as a common reference point to align quality assurance systems, higher education institutions and qualifications.
- Encourages national QA systems to benchmark against the Framework.
- Improves consistency of QA practices and builds a zone of trust to facilitate recognition of qualifications.
- Promotes regional harmonization in higher education.

Characteristics of AQAF

- Consists of four interrelated Principles
- Each Principle focuses on 10 core statements
- Inspirational document recognizing the diversity in ASEAN's culture, beliefs and values that shape higher education systems
- Not prescriptive but uses generic statements of good practice that can be adapted to various political, educational and socio-cultural settings.
- Serves as a link between Internal and external quality assurance as well as the Qualifications Framework.

Four Thematic Interrelated Principles

AQAF Four Principles

1. External Quality Assurance Agency – key player in maintaining and sustaining the quality of education in every nation.
2. External Quality Assurance Processes – core activities of the quality assurance agency (program or institutional)
3. Internal Quality Assurance – the responsibility for quality rests with the higher education institutions themselves
4. National Qualifications Framework – key instruments for the reform of education, training and qualification system across ASEAN member states

Principle 2 - External Quality Assurance Processes

- Interest of students and society should be at the forefront of external QA processes
- Standards must be comparable to international good practices and related to internal quality assurance of HEIs
- Development of standards must involve participation of relevant stakeholders
- Standards must be made publicly available and applied consistently and with due regard for cultural diversity

Principle 3 - Internal Quality Assurance

- The institution has the primary responsibility for quality.
- Quality assurance is a participatory and cooperative process which involves the academic staff, students, and other stakeholders.
- A quality culture underpins all institutional activities including teaching and learning, research, services and management.
- A structured and functional internal quality assurance system with clearly defined responsibilities is established.

But what about this...and that...
It's really difficult.

Well, nobody said
it would be easy!
